Nunn Shield

The Martinborough Senior Team have held on to the Nunn shield by the skin of their teeth with a draw 24 all against Gladstone on Saturday. As they were the holders prior they get to keep for another week. Interesting as Martinborough and Gladstone both drew 20 all in the 1st round.

This week James Bruce's boys have Eketahuna at home this weekend.

COMMUNITY RUGBY REPORT

Featherston JAB

One of the highlights of this year to date is the progress being made by the Featherston JAB.

At the start of the year they were struggling to get a committee. They have attracted 5 new people to serve on the club JAB. They are hosting the Sth Wairarapa U6's which means rugby is being played on a regular basis at Card Reserve.

On the 22nd June they have set up a new Generations Day to complement Old Timers Day. They have requested that all their teams play at home on that day.

This has been achieved with the cooperation of the Greytown Rugby Club. This follows on from the JAB who decided that Featherston host the U 6's to ensure they have rugby at Card Reserve.

It is great to see the support clubs are providing to help Featherston rebuild their club

THE TACKLE – PART 2 - the Continuing Explanation.

Two weeks ago when I left the description of the TACKLE, the ball was on the ground; players who were on the ground were rolling away and a competition for possession was about to take place. SO what happens next?

Before a RUCK has been formed, the TACKLER(s) and the TACKLED PLAYER, once they are on their feet, may immediately use their hands to compete for the ball on the ground. The Tackling Assistants – remember, they are the ones who didn't go to ground – may also use their hands to compete for the ball but must first go to their side of the tackle and enter the tackle-area from behind the players on the ground. This entrance-way is called 'The Gate'.

And if any of these players choose not to compete for the ball, they must immediately move away from the tackle-area without hampering other players.

Any Arriving Player must only enter the contest after first going "through the gate".

And now the tricky part. If any player gets his hands on the ball BEFORE a ruck has formed, he can continue to use his hands even after the ruck commences. So it is a split second thing. Did he get his hands on the ball before the ruck started? This is often the source of most disagreement over the accuracy / consistency of the referee management at tackle, because if the player is too slow, he is handling the ball in the ruck and liable for penalty.

Next week -: When does a tackle end and a ruck or maul commence? What about the requirement for the tackled player to release the ball when there is an opponent above him?
